The Artisan Inn is a small retreat that inspires creativity in an extraordinary setting. Located in Trinity, Newfoundland, a historic fishing village along the shores of Trinity Bay, our guests enjoy the spectacular views of one of the world's most scenic fishing harbours.

At the heart of the Artisan Inn is the Twine Loft, with more than 1000 sq. ft. of workshop and studio space ideally suited to visual artists, writers, actors, dancers or anyone with a love of beauty and nature and an urge to create. The Twine Loft also offers delectable dining (by reservation) in an ambience created by the sound of water, the rays of the setting sun on the bay and the flicker of candlelight. Lunches can be provided by prior arrangement.

We welcome individual guests or groups of up to 20. Accommodation is provided in the surrounding B&B compound that includes the Inn, Gover House and Campbell House, which received the coveted Southcott Award for historic renovation. Many of the furnishings are period pieces or have recently been handcrafted by local artisans. Some self-catering vacation homes are available.

Trinity, location of film productions such as Random Passage and The Shipping News, is one of the best-known communities in the province. Although this picturesque town has a permanent population of only about 350, there are about 50 architecturally significant buildings.

Trinity is also popular for whale and iceberg watching and hiking. The area has several well known trails, of which the moderate Gun Hill Trail and Skerwink Trail are the most spectacular. Ensure that you always bring along enough film!

A seat awaits you by the water.

Escape from the city to this quiet coastal village. In addition to its natural beauty, the town is also the cultural hub of the region, with the Rising Tide Theatre attracting thousands of visitors each year. The Artisan Inn is known for its traditional Newfoundland "kitchen parties", with a feast of local entertainment and performances by Newfoundland musicians during the summer. For a list of workshops and events happening in the Twine Loft, review our website at www.twineloft.com.

This peaceful setting provides a tranquil contrast to everyday routine. Relax, breathe the fresh air, stroll the hills and meadows or explore the town. At the end of the day, relax on the deck with a glass of wine while watching the sun set over the cove.
